"The Sack."

The new style that has created a sensation among the young men of New York and London is shown here now. THE DIP-Dip=Front FRONT SACK is made an inch and a half longer in front than and a half longer in front than at the back, with long broad lapels and beveled points; three buttons close together-a very smart style. No other tailor in town has it vet. But this season we are determined to be at the head of the procession so far as style is concerned.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Bopp will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary by a reception tonight from 8 to 10, given their children, at 1107 O street.

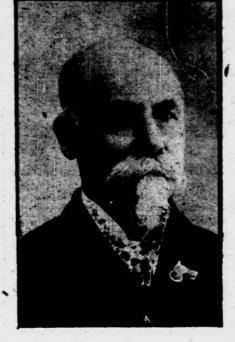

Mrs. William G. Bopp. couple is entering into the pleasure of the occasion with the same interest as that shown by their children and friends. They were married in Leesburg. Va., April 8, 1857. Mrs. Bopp was Miss Mary A. Burke, whose family lived in Leesburg. The wedding trip of forty miles from that town to Washington was made in a six-horse Concord ceach, the only means of transportation then available. Of the seven children of the ccuple five survive—two sons and of the ccupie hve survive—two sons and three daughters—all of whom live in this city. They have eight grandchildren.

Mr. Bopp was born in Darmstadt, the capital of the grand duchy of Hesse, in 1835. Emigrating to this country at the age of seventeen, he came to this city, and during 1852 and 1854, when he was working here, he bought one of the first issues of The Evening Star.

A year later he went to Leesburg to live.

and remained there until 1882. While there he was a member of a local military company, the Loudoun Guards, which were called out in the service of the state during the John Brown raid in 1859, and again in the war between the slates, 1861-1865, the company being attached to the 17th negiment of Virginia Infentry as Company C. He remained with the regiment until the spring of 1862, when he was ordered on detached service as courier to Gen. D. H.

William G. Bopp.

Hill, brother-in-law to Stonewall Jackson and served with him through his campaigns until taken prisoner carrying a dispatch to Jackson. He was brought as prisoner of war to Washington and put in the old capitol, then a military prison. Mr. Bopp has lived in Washington since 1882, and in 1898 retired from active pursuits.
